

She was the warrior queen of the Iceni people.

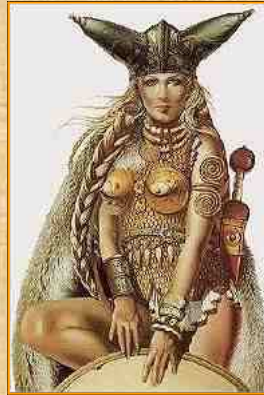

She was important in history because she helped the Iceni people defeat the Romans. The Iceni people were very grateful for this.

She decided to defeat the Romans because the Romans took mother and sisters away.

By Nadine Cavener

Information

She married to a man in 48-49 AD, Prasutagus, he was the ruler of the Iceni people of East Anglia. Once the Romans had conquered Southern England they allowed him to carry on ruling, however when he died the Romans decided to rule the Iceni people directly and confiscated the property of the leading tribes men.

Boudicca was born in 30AD she died in 60 AD.

What I think.

I think that Boudicca was a great warrior and was determined to defeat the Romans and successfully did what's more she didn't just give considering her husband to be dead and other family problems.

I think she was important in history because she helped the Iceni people defeat the Romans. The Iceni people were very grateful for this.

Boudicca

The warrior queen.

After she successfully defeated the Romans they wouldn't stop until Boudicca was defeated and then went on to destroy London and Verulamium thousands were killed finally, they defeated Boudicca by a Roman army led by a man called Paulinus. Many Britons were killed and Boudicca decided to poison herself to avoid capture.

