

Florence Nightingale

She earned the Nickname "The Lady With The lamp" from her non stop nursing of British Soldiers in the Crimean War.

Florence Nightingale's parents were called William Edward and Francis Nightingale.

She was famous for nursing the wounded all over the world.

Florence Nightingale was born in 1820. And died in 1910.

I think she's important because if she wasn't around in the Crimean War most of the soldiers would of died.

At night time she walked around with a lamp checking everyone was ok.

I think she was very brave because she risked her own life to save other people.

When she grew up she became a nurse and in the Crimean War she looked after the soldiers that were wounded.

By Amy Lunn